Labor Partners with Small Business Administration on Seminar for Starting a New Business

Irene Gonzalez, an economic development specialist with the U.S. Small Business Administration, will hold a training seminar on Thursday, Aug. 27, covering the foundation of starting a new business.

The free seminar, set for 5:30-7 p.m. at the Rigby Public Library, 110 N. State St., will cover a variety of topics including building a business plan, finding available resources, choosing a legal structure, preparing for a lender and marketing.

People with disabilities who need a reasonable accommodation to participate can contact Christopher St. Jeor at (208) 557-2500 ext. 3077. To access the Idaho Relay Service for the deaf and hard of hearing, dial 711.
