On-the-Job Training: You Hire. You Train. We Pay.

If you're an eligible employer, your business can be reimbursed for up to 50 percent of its training costs when you agree to hire and train an eligible worker. Eligible workers are often new to the labor force or people upgrading their skills after a layoff. Job openings must be full time, non-seasonal and pay the minimum wage or higher. Call us to qualify before hiring.

Help develop Idaho's workforce of the future with an internship. These short-term work assignments are a great way for job seekers to learn new skills for a specific occupation. Eligible internships are available at no cost to your business.

Business Seminars

Customized training seminars to help you effectively meet today's business, workforce and human resource challenges are sponsored by local offices. These seminars allow Idaho businesses to share best practices, understand employment regulations and improve operations. Topics include:

- Controlling your unemployment insurance costs
- Creating a discrimination-free environment
- Wage, hour and labor laws

Work Opportunity Tax Credit

This federal tax credit encourages employers to hire from targeted groups of disadvantaged job seekers. If your business qualifies, you can use this tax credit to reduce your federal tax liability by up to $9,600 per eligible worker.

Federal Bonding Program

Bonds help protect employers against employee dishonesty such as loss of cash or property valued up to the bond amount. Idaho's federal bonding program provides a free six-month fidelity bond of $5,000 - $10,000, providing greater security for your company when an employee is not eligible for commercial bonding because he or she has poor credit or is an ex-offender, welfare recipient or a dishonorably discharged veteran.

Reduce your unemployment insurance tax rate, control the cost of unemployment insurance claims and stay in compliance with changing state regulations. Most of your questions about unemployment insurance taxes can be resolved through a discussion with one of our tax representatives.

SIDES (State Information Data Exchange System) E-Response notifies your business by email about any benefit claims filed against your account and provides information for you to send an initial response, making it easier to respond to claims within the required seven days.

Idaho Human Rights Commission

Federal and state laws generally define discrimination as treatment of one employee differently from another on the basis of race, color, religion, gender, pregnancy, age, marital status, physical or mental disability or other personal characteristics. Discrimination lawsuits cost businesses in legal fees and lost productivity. The best defense is to keep your business discrimination free and the Idaho Human Rights Commission can show you how.

Idaho Labor Laws, Required Posters

Speaking of the law, did you know you don't have to pay for required labor law posters? You can download them free of charge from our website. Our Wage & Hour unit can also help you understand what laws Idaho employers must follow including safety requirements and paying the minimum wage.
