

USE OF SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER ADVISORY

As part of your application for a new or renewed farm labor contractor's license, you are required to provide your Social Security Number to the Department of Labor. This is mandatory. The authority for this requirement is found in Idaho Code § 73-122 and in 42 USC § 666(a)(13). Failure to provide your Social Security Number will be a basis to refuse to issue or renew a license. Although a number other than your Social Security Number will appear on the face of the license, your Social Security Number will remain on file with the Department. The Department's record of your Social Security Number will be used for child support enforcement purposes only, unless you authorize other uses of the number.
